

Hawaii's Plantation Village pre-holiday rummage, crafts and baked goods sale set for November 7

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

October 21, 2008

WAIPAHU, Hawaii – Hawaii's Plantation Village, a non-profit living history museum located in the former sugar-plantation town of Waipahu, is presenting a pre-holiday rummage, crafts and baked goods sale on Saturday, November 7 from 9 am – 1 pm.

“The upcoming holidays present the perfect opportunity for HPV to schedule this goods and crafts sale,” said Faith Evans, HPV President. “People are encouraged to browse the interesting knickknacks we will have available and check out the hand-made craft items and home-made goodies in a relaxing outdoor environment. Our prices promise to be good bargains.”

Rummage items include: gently-used clothing and shoes, toys and games, house wares and more
Baked goods include: Bibinka (Filipino coconut rice dessert), Rice Krispies treats, Japanese baked mochi and more

Misc items include: Tsukemono (Japanese pickled vegetables), holiday collectibles, over 300 books including HPV cook books and more

“Hawaii's Plantation Village is presenting the pre-holiday sale to help offset the budget deficit which resulted from our recent loss of City and State funding,” commented Jeff Higa, HPV Executive Director. “100% of all sales will support on-going HPV programs.”

The event is open to the public. Ample free on-site parking is available.

The Village will also be open to the public for regular docent-led tours.”

High-rez DIGITAL IMAGES of the items (pictured) are available upon request.
